The Corksy token is primarily built on the Solana blockchain, leveraging its high-speed transactions and low fees. This foundation provides a robust infrastructure for the token's utility and value proposition. The project has announced plans to expand to the XRP Ledger later in 2025, which will increase cross-chain compatibility and potentially expand the user base.

With a fixed total supply of 10 billion tokens, Corksy has implemented a deflationary mechanism through its burn strategy, which will be detailed in the tokenomics section. This cap on supply is designed to maintain scarcity as adoption grows.

TOKENOMICS BREAKDOWN

The Corksy token distribution is strategically designed to ensure long-term sustainability while providing adequate resources for growth initiatives. The largest allocation goes to liquidity (27%), ensuring stable trading and price discovery. The rewards portion (20%) incentivizes community participation and token holding.

Deflationary Mechanism: 50% of all net profits from ebooks, NFTs, merchandise, and app-based purchases will be used to buy and burn $CORKSY tokens from the open market. This continuous reduction in circulating supply is implemented to support long-term token value appreciation and reward holders.

PUBLIC SOLANA WALLETS

Corsy maintains complete transparency by publishing all operational wallet addresses. These wallets handle specific functions within the ecosystem and are publicly viewable on the Solana blockchain. All major transactions, including token burns, airdrops, and vesting releases, are announced through official channels and can be independently verified.

Wallet activity can be tracked using public Solana explorers such as Solscan or Solana Explorer. When Corsy expands to the XRP Ledger later in 2025, additional XRP wallet addresses will be published and maintained with the same level of transparency.

ONGOING TRANSPARENCY COMMITMENT

REGULAR UPDATES

Any changes to wallet usage, token burns, or distribution adjustments will be announced through official channels with advance notice.

VERIFICATION TOOLS

The community is encouraged to use public blockchain explorers to verify transactions and wallet balances independently.

GOVERNANCE INPUT

Future plans include community governance mechanisms for key decisions regarding tokenomics and treasury management.

The Corksy project is committed to maintaining the highest standards of financial transparency in the cryptocurrency space. This approach builds trust with the community and provides stakeholders with the information needed to make informed decisions about their participation in the ecosystem.

All token holders and community members are encouraged to stay updated through our official channels. These channels will provide timely information about project developments, including wallet operations, token burns, and future expansion to additional blockchains.

ECOSYSTEM FEEDBACK LOOP (UPDATED – JULY 2025)

The Corksy tokenomics model now includes an automated feedback loop. 50% of net profits from ebooks, merch, and in-app purchases are used to buy back and burn $CORKSY tokens monthly. This mechanism actively reduces token supply and strengthens the long-term value proposition for holders. Wallet activity and burns are trackable in real time through our app and block explorers.
